JOURNAL

OF THE

AMERICAN ORIENTAL SOCIETY.

NOTICE TO CONTRIBUTORS.

CONTRIBUTORS to the JOURNAL OF THE AMERICAN ORIENTAL SOCIETY will greatly lighten the task of the editors, as well as lessen the cost of composition and correction, by observing the following suggestions: —

1. In preparing copy, please use ruled paper not over eight inches by ten in size, and open-ruled; and leave a margin of at least three inches on one side. The revision of a crowded manuscript is excessively troublesome and laborious. When the last sheet of the article has been finished, the last foot-note or other interpolation added, and the last subtraction made, please number the folios consecutively with the natural numbers from 1 to the end.

2. Write plainly, especially proper names and foreign words. If foreign characters are to be employed, let the ductus resemble as closely as possible the type in our fonts; if Roman or Italic characters with diacritical points are used, see that the points are distinct and rightly placed. Words to be printed in Italics should be once underscored. Words to be printed in Clarendon type may be once underscored with a wavy line. Type-writer copy always needs to be carefully revised, with especial attention to mechanical faults and to the punctuation.

3. Indicate paragraphs clearly by a wide indention at the beginning; or, if the break is an afterthought, by the usual sign (¶). Begin all larger divisions of an article on a fresh sheet of paper. It is hardly necessary to say that the proper construction of paragraphs is far more than a matter of external appearance.

4. Punctuate the copy precisely as you wish it to appear in print. The general system of punctuation adopted in the Journal is that set forth in Bigelow's "Punctuation and other Typographical Matters" (Boston, Lee and Shepard), a convenient manual of subjects connected with the preparation of manuscript for the printer and the correction of proof, which will be found helpful in many ways. Double marks of quotation (" ") should be used for actual quotations; single marks (' '), for included quotations, definitions, and the like.

5. In citing the titles of books, give the title in full where it first occurs. In subsequent citations, the work may be referred to by the significant words of the title; but abbreviations which may not be at once understood are to be avoided; and, above all, entire uniformity should be observed throughout the article. Where some conventional system of citation is in general use, as in the case of the Vedas and the Brahmanic literature, or of the Cuneiform Inscriptions of Western Asia, the established custom of scholars should be followed. Titles of books will be printed in Italics; titles of articles in periodicals, in quotation marks, with the name of the periodical in Italics. But the well-established method of abbreviating the titles of the Journals of the five principal Oriental Societies (JA., JAOS., JASB., JRAS., ZDMG.) should be adhered to.

6. It is desirable, for reasons of economy as well as good typography, that footnotes be kept within moderate limits. References to footnotes should be made by brief series of natural numbers (say from 1 to 10), not by stars, daggers, etc. As to the method of inserting footnotes in the copy, good usage differs. A way convenient for author and editor and printer is to insert the note, with a wider left-hand margin than that used for the text, beginning the note on the line next after the line of text to which it refers, the text itself being resumed on the line next after the ending of the note. But if the note is an afterthought, or if it is long, it is well to interpolate it on a fresh sheet, perhaps of differently colored paper.

7. In matters for which general rules cannot easily be given, contributors are requested to conform as far as possible to the usage of the Journal, which may be learned from previous volumes.

8. Proofs will be sent to the authors on duplicate slips, with typographical corrections, suggestions, and queries by the editors. Contributors are requested to pay particular attention to the latter, and in every case to indicate either their rejection of a proposed change by drawing a pen through it, or else their acceptance of the same by drawing the pen through the query-mark (Qy), and in no case to make any erasures whatever. The first proofs should be read as closely as possible in order that the gleaning of corrections on the revise may be small. Those who may not have had experience in correcting proofs will find clear directions in Bigelow.

9. Contributors are respectfully reminded that additions and alterations in type, especially in such matter as we print in the Journal, are in many cases technically difficult and proportionately costly, the bill for corrections sometimes amounting to as much as the first cost of composition; and that such alterations entail a most trying kind of labor, not only on editors and compositors, but on the authors themselves as well; and they are accordingly requested to help the editors to make the most economical use of the Society's funds by such careful preparation of their manuscript as shall render expensive alterations unnecessary.
